A fairly large crowd heard the program of spirituals, semi-classical selections and readings which the Peerless Concert Company of eight Negroes gave Tuesday night at the First Reformed church.

Especially pleasing to the audience were the humorous songs and readings, and the chorus selections. The three-part program lasted approximately two hours. The first part consisted of spirituals, was sung in costume. The company came here from Bucyrus, and from here went to Kenton.

PENSION ADVOCATE.
 Star: Word comes from the members of the House and Senate that the administration is considering enactment of a bill for the purpose of making a part of the new pension law, as the bill is now being considered by the House and the Senate. It is hoped that the bill will be passed by the House and the Senate before the end of the session.

Franklin D. Roosevelt, president of the United States, is the first and only state to place the bill on the ballot. Is Ohio to lag behind in this important legislation, waiting for the government to pass the law?

The bill of the Federal Order and the Old Age Pension bill, which was then passed by the House and the Senate, have proposed to place the bill on the ballot in November. Now the bill is working for its passage.

SHOWDOWN IN SCHOOLS NEAR

Closing at Early Date Looms in Many Ohio Communities. Survey Shows.

By The Associated Press.
 COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 1.—Eighty-two with their backs to the wall to keep open hundreds of Ohio schools on may look their doom and declare an insolvency and a suspension of operations. At least two already have closed.

The seriousness of the situation confronting the schools was emphasized by a survey just completed by the Associated Press, which found that the schools which face the turn of the year with confidence are in the very great minority. A vast majority, especially in the smaller school districts, have nearly reached their financial limit and will close sometime between now and Christmas unless some relief is afforded them.

Large Cities Hit.
 The large city schools are not exempted. In Akron, for instance, the superintendent said the lack of funds was so acute the schools might be forced to close by Christmas. Cleveland school officials asserted schools there may be forced to close.

Cincinnati and Canton however reported they probably would be able to conclude the school year but for the most part other cities and most counties said they expected at the very least to curtail their terms from one month to four or five. This, of course, in the event the state does not come to the rescue.

Thousands of teachers, the report indicated, are working for a percentage of their normal salaries. In many instances they are performing their teaching tasks merely in hope that some way will be found to pay them salaries long overdue.

Where teachers are being paid their checks are from 8 to as high as 40 per cent below normal. In numerous instances, teachers are working on month-to-month contracts.

At Grove City near Columbus, the public schools have been closed for weeks and the board of education says they will not be reopened until after the Nov. 7 election, at least. At that time the voters will pass on a proposed 3-mill tax levy that, if approved, would make it possible for the schools to obtain state aid.

Only two weeks ago, the village school at West Lafayette, near Coshocton, was closed because the board said no funds will be available and the school already is $2,700 in debt. West Lafayette votes on a 2-mill tax levy Nov. 7 and if it is passed the board said the school, which has an enrollment of 470, will reopen.

Mr. and Mrs. William Bair of Marion were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Tuttle.

Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Miller and Mr. and Mrs. Hayes Miller and daughters, accompanied by John Miller of Seattle, Wash., were Sunday dinner guests of Mrs. Sophia Croft west of Caledonia.

Outrageous Fortune

by Patricia Wentworth

COPYRIGHT 1939, J. B. Lippincott Co.

THIRTY-NINE
 morning teeth had lost the train. His back for a moment the platform. The
 and he certainly getting that he could organizing a medium build—some sort head—a suit, not a there was something man's right shoulder shoulder, of the remembered his own but him and pulled the sound of tearing cloth between the posts and across the field was angry and tired, he on his head, and a boy had had the emeralds and had lost them.
 and a Leighton all he had to go upon not provide him with encouragement.
 back to Hale place doz-Caroline by a bare
 He had left the door and he found it closed.
 had come. He thought there still. He called When there was no reward forward into the the dropped for and lit an the candles she had him. He wanted to wash from his face and to a bitten wrist.

He felt sick. He let the tap out his head under it. Then a look at his wrist. It was deal bruised, but the skin broken in one place. As it under the tap and the blood ran off, he gave a caught up the candle in hand.

The mark of the bite showed on both sides of the wrist. On the side were six indentations close together. But on the side of the wrist there were only two on one side and two on the other, and a wide gap between.

Now at last was a real clue. The man who had bitten him had lost two front teeth in the middle of the upper jaw.

If you cannot go back or go forward you must just make the best of it and go whatever way you can.

He walked back across the field in the early hours of the morning and took the milk train on Leighton at 10 minutes to 7.
 It was a cold, uncomfortable hour anywhere, but especially when you have no fixed destination and very little money.

He had a cup of tea and a sandwich and put in time in the waiting room until he could buy a paper. He chose one of the more domestic dailies, and was immediately confronted by a large picture of Packham hall and a photograph described as unique, of Susie Lee Borg with the emeralds all across the front of her dress.

It wasn't a very good photograph of Susie, but it was a speaking likeness of the emeralds. Jim wondered whether the burglar would see it, and what he would do if he did see it. If he had a grain of sense, he'd knock the chain away into the nearest ditch and make himself scarce.

That was assuming that he didn't already know what he had got. But didn't he? What had brought him to Hale place twice? Would he have come back a second time, and come back to a room which appeared to contain nothing stealable if he hadn't got wind of the emeralds?
 The emeralds would provide the price. A room containing nothing stealable, two china candlesticks and an immovable four-post

Given in Marriage

By ADELE GARRISON.

Madge Sends Hugh a Release from His Promise To Guard Dicky In Order To Have Him Return to Lee Chow at the Farmhouse

"I AM SORRY to disturb you," my father said, as at his summons Lillian threw open the nursery door and ushered him in. "but it is necessary that we run over these astounding events of tonight, and determine what is best to be done." "No," as Lillian started to close the door again, "leave it open.
Harry will be along presently, and as the football boys say, we'll go into a huddle."

"It seems to me that you already have been in one," Lillian said audaciously. "At least the sound that floated in to us indicated some kind of rumpus was on."

"Ah, yes," my father replied, "my course you could not help but hear it. A sad affair, all the more sorrowful because it is so hard to understand."

A firm, heavy tread sounded outside the door, and the next instant

Harry Underwood came through the doorway.

"He's quiet now," he volunteered.
"The jaxons seem to be over-though he's weak of course. But I think he'll sleep for a while. I hope so, at any rate. What do you think Chief about getting Hugh back here?"

My father looked at me.
"I'm afraid that rests with my daughter," he said. "She left her husband at the hospital upon the understanding that Hugh would stay there and guard him. Unless she releases Hugh from that promise, I doubt that he would leave Richard even to come here."

I saw a reflection of that doubt in the faces of both Harry and Lillian, and was furious to find my face flaming at this intimation that Hugh held my wishes paramount to anything else.

A Binding Promise
"Let me get this clearly. I spoke to you very seriously. Do you mean that you wish me to decide whether Hugh is to remain at the hospital with Dicky, or is to come over here at Lee Chow's call? How can I make such a decision? I who know nothing of the facts, to whom this is as plain as a book of arrest circles of Sanskrit?"

I cannot wait to explain everything to you now, my father said.
We'll discuss it if I tell you that with Lee Chow safely bound in the other room, Harry can guard Richard as well as Hugh can. It was because Hugh feared that Lee Chow might succeed in getting into Richard's room at the hospital that he insisted upon staying with Richard tonight. Now conditions are altered. Richard is now in no jeopardy with which Harry cannot cope, and Hugh is sorely needed here. Under these circumstances—can you not?"

"Under those circumstances," I interrupted sharply, "there of course can be but one answer.
Hugh must leave Dick and come here. Tell him, Harry, that if he feels bound by any promise to me which I doubt I release him from it now, and wish him to leave you with Dicky while he comes over here."

My father was the first to look at me after I stopped speaking, and his approving smile heartened me.
I brought back my poised, and I shaken by this contretemps concerning Hugh's care of Dicky.

"That is what I expected you to say," he said. "Harry, will you start at once? You can drive Hugh's car back, can you not?
Then it will be there for him to drive back."

"I don't think you know," the big man said, with a cheery acquiescence. "How much do you want me to tell Hugh about this rumpus tonight?"

"Nothing, except that Lee Chow is safely here under guard, that Margaret releases him from his promise, and that he is needed here. I don't want you to take time to tell him anything else, except not to worry about the speed of getting over here." Copyright 1939, K. F. S., Inc.

The Marry-go-Round

BY HELEN ROWLAND

THE LOCK IS WEDLOCK
 A wife is a jealous of the girl who is flirting with her impressionable husband is always softened by the thought that there is another woman as weak-minded as she was.

The old-fashioned woman was content to be just one wife to a man, but nowadays a woman wants to be a man's whole harem.
 His paymaster, soul-mate and yoke-mate, which is too big a job for any woman.

Most summer love affairs die of infatuation, a few of them last long enough these days, to be of old age.

Only married men are safe. A bachelor like a cat with nobody, at the wheel is apt to careen into anything from a breach of promise suit to an accident, marriage.

When a man marries his private secretary, she merely stops inventing his alibi for him and begins listening to him.

Some of these titled husbands are like guest towels—not a bit of use in the household except to show off to other women.

The great sex problem today is the problem of how to induce towels and playthings to stop waiting so much about it. Sex like food is a vital part of life. If you don't care to read a cook-book every evening.

Love is a telescope through which a girl sees all a man's charms and ignores highly glorified marriage is a microscope, through which she sees all his flaws and shortcomings highly magnified.

You can safely let a man feel that he is admired, that he is appreciated, and sometimes that he is loved, but never that he is indispensable.

City Negotiates Sale of Street Car Rails

Local Company Contracts for Purchase and Removal of Interurban Tracks on Center St.

Sales of interurban rails on Center street from State to Broad street to the Marion Iron & Metal Co. for $5 a gross ton, was announced today by E. O. Thompson, city service director.

A contract for the sale was agreed upon today by Mr. Thompson and Newman Brown, head of the company. The contract, involving approximately 50 tons of rails, provides that the company will buy the rails for the purpose of using them to build new and equipment to burn them off with acetylene torches.

The city agreed to remove the bricks and cement ground adjacent to the rails.

Work on removing the rails progressed today between Main and Prospect streets on Center street as the removal between State and Main streets neared completion.

Mr. Thompson also announced that West Center street traffic for routes 30 and 35 will be detoured on Columbus and Davis streets, starting Friday, when the C & O railroad begins removal of the interurban cross-over on its West Center street crossing.

The crossing will be removed, he said, and replaced with straight rails, eliminating the crushed stone filler. Concrete slabs will be used to make the new crossing. This work is expected to take two or three days.

City Buys "Kettle"

Work of covering relaid brick on Center street with asphalt is being facilitated, Mr. Unecapher said, by use of an "asphalt kettle," which was purchased through the Gallon Iron works for $238. The kettle, which heats the asphalt to make it suitable for use, is essential to the work, he said. Formerly the city has borrowed "kettles" for a day or two at a time but this would have been impossible, Mr. Unecapher said, for a month's project such as is now under way.

Bids for purchase of the rails to be removed from State, Davis and Fairground streets and part of North Main street will be accepted

FIX THAT COLD AND FIX IT RIGHT!

Don't Let It Take Root and Grow!

A cold neglected may be a cold regretted! Don't expose yourself to serious complications. Adopt a sensible treatment of colds. Remember, a cold is an internal infection and, as such, calls for internal treatment. Remember, too, a preparation good for half a dozen things besides colds can't be equally effective for colds. A cold calls for a COLD remedy.

Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine is what a cold requires. It is expressly a cold remedy. It is internal and direct. It is complete in effect. It does the four things necessary.

First, it opens the bowels, gently but thoroughly. Second, it combats the cold germs in the system and reduces the fever. Third, it relieves the headache and grippiness. Fourth, it tones the entire system.

STATES WILL TALK OVER RUM CONTROL

West Virginia, Pennsylvania and Michigan To Meet With Ohio.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, O., Nov. 2.—Ohio is going to a conference with West Virginia, Pennsylvania and Michigan to discuss rum control, it was learned today from the Ohio state liquor control board.

Tom Crow, state liquor control board member, said the matter of interstate rum control is a matter of common interest to all four states and the prevention of bootlegging and other racketeering activities in the liquor trade.

Five representatives have been invited to meet representatives to the meeting.

West Virginia, Pennsylvania and Michigan officials are expected to be represented, according to Governor McNitt, and Pennsylvania participation is doubtful.

MAKES $5,881,000 IN LAST FIVE YEARS

By The Associated Press

FORD ANSWER FAILS TO SUIT STRIKERS

Workers Send Reply To NRA, Await Action By That Body.

By The Associated Press

EDGEWATER, N. J., Nov. 2.—Ford strikers today sought to put aside their disappointment and dissatisfaction at the motor company's reply to their demands and wait back to await official NRA action on the terms received from Detroit.

The strikers' board of strategy, without comment, forwarded the terms to General Hugh Johnson and Senator Robert Wagner at Washington last night, taking the position that it was for federal authorities to decide whether the Ford reply fulfills NRA requirements.

Strike leaders unofficially expressed disappointment at the contents of the reply.

Salient among the terms of the reply was an implicit denial of the demand for a 35-hour week.

"If the law prohibits men from working more than 35 hours a week, wages for 35 hours will be paid," the statement said. "When the law permits men to work 40 hours a week, wages for 40 hours will be paid and the company will maintain as far as business conditions permit, a five-day week of eight hours a day."

The company said it hoped to be able not only to meet "if conditions permit" the $5 minimum daily wage demand but to restore the $7 minimum prevailing before 1932, or a even higher rate.

Replying on the question of collective bargaining, the company said tersely, "recognition of collective bargaining through representatives of the workers' own choosing is already required by the present national recovery act."

GUNMAN ESCAPES IN RAIN OF BULLETS

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Nov. 2.—Verne C. Miller, one-time South Dakota sheriff who turned gunman and became one of the most hunted men in the country, was still at large today after escaping the gunfire of federal agents who traced him to a Chicago hideout.

In custody, however, was a woman agent said was his wife. She was seized at an apartment hotel where the Millers had registered as Mr. and Mrs. George Hayes, a few minutes after a spectacular dash from the place last night while machine guns rained bullets all around him.

MENDIETA URGED TO FORM GOVERNMENT

Demands Follow Night of Near Terror in Cuban Capital.

By The Associated Press

HAVANA, Nov. 2.—All eyes were on Carlos Mendieta today as Cubans turned back to the political council tables after a night of near terror in the capital.

Demands were renewed, as the labor situation continued tense, that the veteran nationalist leader form a new government to supplant that of President Grau San Martin. But it was reported in some quarters that Mendieta might decline to sacrifice his political future by becoming provisional president.

Source close to Mendieta said he personally favored the return of Carlos Manuel De Cespedes, who stepped out to make way for Grau. The political question was overshadowed during the night by
